

PDF PROOF POLICY

Please read the following information regarding our PDF Proof policy.

Your PDF proof can be found on the pages following this one.

PDF Proof Viewing Conditions

Please refer to the following guidelines to ensure this PDF is viewed on your screen correctly.

- The "Overprint Preview" option must be enabled. The logo to the right will show "ON" if it is correctly enabled. Recent versions of Adobe Acrobat or Adobe Reader should be set to "Automatic" or "Always". (Preferences/Page Display)
- The "Use Local Fonts" option must be disabled. This option can also be found in the Preferences area of your PDF reader. (Preferences/Page Display)

If using Adobe Acrobat products, these options can usually be found in the Preferences area. For other products, please refer to the documentation that came with your PDF viewing software.

PDF Proof vs Printed Proof

PDF proofs are a convenient and accurate way to proof the position of images, artwork and text of your documents. PDF proofs can also be used to confirm alterations to text that we have made at your request.

However, PDF proofs are not well suited to proofing the colour and resolution of your images and artwork. Additionally, PDF proofs cannot be used to proof size, folding or pagination of your documents. For those purposes, we provide hard-copy, printed proofs for your approval.

If a printed proof is not possible due to time constraints or other reasons, we will accept an approval by email providing you read and understand the following PDF Proof Waiver. Once we have received your approval email, we will proceed with your print order.

We also suggest that you contact your sales representative or CSR and request a high resolution PDF proof for review.

PDF Proof Waiver

I understand that RR Donnelley requires that I review a hard-copy, printed proof before I approve my order for production.

By approving this PDF by way of return email, I waive my right to view the printed proof and will not hold RR Donnelley responsible for unexpected colour variations, typographical or grammatical errors, or artwork adjustments that may have occurred during file processing.

I understand that RR Donnelley will print a hard-copy, printed proof for internal review only, and authorize my project manager to approve the hard-copy, printed proof on my behalf. Any artwork adjustment and/or reprint costs incurred after I approve the PDF proof, are solely my responsibility.
